SPECIFICATION

1. INTRODUCTION

The Department of Cooperative Governance and Traditional Affairs in KwaZulu-Natal (KZN Cogta) among other things is responsible for playing oversight and support to local government and the institution of traditional leadership. Its stakeholders are largely based in the rural areas and at all times they need to be in the know of development aimed at bringing a better life to all. Following its immediacy and flexibility in comparison with main stream media, community radio stations have proven to be indispensable to any communication endeavour with this constituency. KZN Cogta is therefore seeking services of a service provider who is based in KZN to assist the department to tap in this communications sector without the department having to deal with individual community radio stations.

2. BACKGROUND

The department is embarking on an ongoing campaign of disseminating information and creating awareness to all of its stakeholders.

The target audience of the department is both rural and urban and community radios have a reputation of being cost-effective and are also regarded as the most effective medium to reach the department's audiences with speed. By its nature, this sector is very flexible to send any message across to communities on a very short notice.

The Media Diversity and Development Act encourages the usage of community media which in turn empowers those in the sector and audiences in both urban and rural targeted by this sector.

KZN Cabinet has also resolved government departments must make use of community media as opposed to mainstream media.

The Communications Directorate provides communication support to all business units of the department. This includes, among others, the placing of public service announcements, transmission of live feeds and hosting of live programmes to various community radio stations and mainstream media.

The advantage of transmitting live feed of the MEC's speech to community radio stations enables the department to send the message across to over 1 million people as opposed to about 2500 that are present in the marquee when the department organizes a live event. This is impossible with mainstream media unless if prepared to pay a fortune for this to be done.

Not all events would require this service, but only those that would be hand-picked by the Communications Directorate.

It has proven to be a serious challenge to undergo supply chain processes when communications is required to have PSAs on air with speed.

3. DISCUSSION

3.1 The significance of using this service is that community radio stations which are in the deepest rural areas are also able to receive feed of our MEC's speech, programmes and PSAs enabling the department to have its messages received all over the province even in the deepest rural areas.

3.2 Following supply chain processes has proven to be a nightmare as there are certain event that come up on a very short notice, which supply chain says it make it difficult for source out other quotations taking into account the fact that, this is a speciality service which is very elusive in the province. Supply chain has tried on numerous occasions to get other service providers offering this service but they were unsuccessful. They then recommended to communications to consider entering to a contract with a service provider offering this service.

3.3 With community radio stations mushrooming all over the province, this is a cost effective way to consider when communicating through broadcast media. This to certain extent would save the department a lot of money paid to main stream broadcast media.

3.4 On numerous occasions certain communication plans had to be aborted as a result of following supply chain processes to procure this service because of its scarcity.

3.5 Asking all community radio stations to send a quotation each time we need their service would be impractical.

3.6 For all the material that would be broadcast, the department would hold copyright and would be able to retrieve as and when required.

4. DELIVERABLES
